The Dos and Don'ts presented by the American Bar Association's National Center for Elder Law, "Elder Law and You—A Guide and Checklist for Financial Planning," is a helpful resource. Each participant in an SP meeting should be familiar with the information presented in "Elder Law and You—A Guide and Checklist for Financial Planning," and should consult with their respective counsel to ensure compliance.

2. Do not discuss or exchange information regarding the above with other individuals, other than those incidental to SPI-sponsored meetings, over the phone.
3. Do not meet without SPI staff or counsel present.

1. Adhere to prepared agendas for SPI meetings and ensure that meeting minutes do not accurately reflect the matters which transpire.
2. Understand the purposes and authority of each SPI group in which you participate.
3. Consult with the SPI General Counsel and your medical counselor at all times, questions relating to SPI meetings.
4. Protest against any discussion or meeting or issues which appear to violate the anti-trust laws; disassociate yourself from any such discussions or activities and editorially stating in which they continue.
