

- SCHMIDT, K. G. 1960. Staub 28: 173.
 SMITH, J., I. D. P. WOOTON & E. J. KING. 1961. Thorax. 6: 127.
 SUNDIUS, N. & A. BYGDEEN. 1938. Arch. Gewerbepathol. Gewerbehyg. 8: 28.
 TALVITIE, N. A. & L. W. BREWER. 1962. Am. Ind. Hyg. Assoc. J. 23: 68.
 THOMAS, K. & H. STEGEMANN. 1954. Beitr. Silikose-Forsch. (No. 28).

ASBESTOS DU

J. (

Medical Research
 Llandough Ho

In previous animal du shed differences in the (Wagner, 1963 and else
 ran cases of pleural me mainly in association v research project the int 40s, crocidolite, amor mesotheliomas. The an biological examination
 majority of human case

In an attempt to clar planned, and for this i by which equal amount of rats by an inhalatio whether the various t same extent and had given a method was de experiment carried on

Fifty-seven male a ble for the experime into 5 groups.
 male rats were exp
 ate, or powdered at rats making up this included as an inert Rhodesian chryso
 obtained in the most
 ground in a microh

The airborne du asbestos, and the n

8000 0971 PQ