Ryan -

One quick follow-up from my e-mail below. Repsol's CEO Josu Jon Imaz San Miguel has some availability to meet on Wednesday, June 7, or Thursday, June 8, if that might work better for Administrator Pruitt that Tuesday, June 6.

Let me know if you have any questions.

Thanks,

Andrew

Ryan -

I hope you had a nice weekend. Per my e-mail below, I wanted to circle back with you to see if EPA Administrator Scott Pruitt may have any time on Tuesday, June 6, to meet with Repsol's CEO Josu Jon Imaz San Miguel. Repsol is a large player in the Marcellus Shale and is also active in Alaska, Oklahoma and Texas, among other states. Mr. Imaz is also a member of DOE's National Petroleum Council. He would be interested in sharing his perspective on how Repsol can produce oil and natural gas in a safe and responsible manner that bolsters US energy security and creates jobs and economic growth.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Thanks,

Andrew

Subject: Meeting with Repsol CEO

Ryan -

I hope that things are well at EPA. My name is Andrew Shaw and I work on energy and environmental law and public policy at Dentons. My firm represents Repsol, a Spanish-based oil and gas company with significant assets in Alaska, Pennsylvania and Texas, among other places in the US. In the Marcellus, Repsol holds an interest in 170,000 net acres and produced 550 Mmf/d of natural gas in 2015. In March, Repsol and Armstrong Energy announced the discovery of 1.2 billion barrels of oil on Alaska's North Slope, the largest US onshore conventional discovery in 30 years.

On June 6, Repsol's CEO Josu Jon Imaz Miguel will be in DC from Madrid. I wanted to see if Administrator Pruitt might have some time and interest to meet with the CEO to discuss Repsol's footprint in the US. I know his schedule is busy so I would appreciate any availability he might have that day.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Thanks-

Andrew
