...he pre-war average for that month, compared with 56 percent for June and 85 percent for July, 1934, according to the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. Corresponding exports during the five-year period 1909-10 to 1913-14 of 44 important farm products is used by the bureau in measuring the monthly trends in exports.

The main reason for the low index of 64 in July was the decline in exports of cotton. The July index for cotton stood at 84, the lowest for that month since July, 1931, when it stood at 75. Total cotton exports for the month were 292,000 bales compared with 362,000 bales in June with 321,000 bales in July last year. The decrease occurred in exports to the Orient, particularly China.

flowers and summer blooming habit. A roof is the place for it. Its foliage is superior but propagation is difficult and apparently best accomplished by offshoots from the roots.

The tecomas are good vines, all of them with clean, handsome foliage and good flowers. Miss Sessions names T. Jasminoides with white, red-throated trumpet flowers; T. Mackeni, summer blooming "Queen of Sheba;" T. Capensis, common as dirt and just as useful with its hardy acceptance of sea winds and other difficult exposures. It makes a good hedge.

Queen of Sheba's dainty pink bells are extremely attractive winter by-products of this vine and the Mackeni looks just like it in summer. These are an excellent pair for any garden. Mackeni may be trained as a shrub.

Early fall is an advantageous time to get vines started. Planting at Miss Sessions' day will be good culture as well as a salute to her.

Rural, City Dwellers Aided by Housing Act

Benefits of the national housing act with respect to property improvement, apply to both farm and rural properties and city homes and buildings, it is pointed out by James A. Moffett, federal housing administrator.

Success of the modernization program is believed by Moffett to depend fully as much upon the response and cooperation of the farmer and the citizen of the small community as upon those who live in metropolitan areas
