The Office Safety Committee has presented the Basic Training Course to 183 people during thirteen sessions. Names of the attendees and copies of their signed "pledges" are included for your (SHAC's) information.

The many comments about the course have all been very complimentary - of the instructors as well as the content. Being just a little prejudiced, I feel the members of the Office Safety Committee had the most influence with the courses' success.

The quantity and quality of suggestions derived from the course participants have also been very encouraging. To conclude this assignment, the Office Safety Committee has planned an early January meeting to organize the accumulated suggestions before forwarding them to SHAC.
