PIONEER WHITE LEAD

Castili out for the count in the first round.

A very unpopular decision was rendered in the second bout when referee Weiner gave the decision of the second fight to Joe Grigalumas. This was one of the best fights of the evening and was a good draw from start to finish. Springer, a very young fighter, and new at the game did all of the leading and had Joe looking sick. When the decision was rendered the crowd displayed its disapproval with boos at the referee.

Discouraging Story

Young Springer had just received a telegram that his brother had passed away in New York and only went into the ring because he did not wish to break up the fight card.

Sheldon of Oakland, white, and Briggs of San Francisco, a colored fighter, started in the first round to throw hay-makers at each other. Sheldon was clearly outclassed and gave up in the second round by taking the count.

Jack London Book Is To Be Finished

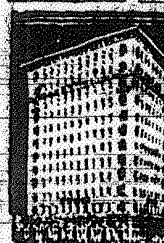

K. London, Jack London's widow, has arrived in Stockholm on a visit. She proposes to make a trip to Lapland, and will sail in the motor ship Balboa on August 26th for San Francisco. There she will finish her husband's last book "Eyes of Asia" which she considers the best of all his writings.
