Subject: Pruitt: Advance notice for Clean Power Plan replacement coming 'very soon'

By Alex Guillén

11/17/2017 12:06 PM EDT

EPA Administrator Scott Pruitt said today that the advance rulemaking to create a replacement for the Clean Power Plan will be released "very, very soon."

Pruitt, speaking at a gathering of the conservative Federalist Society, did not elaborate further on that timeline. EPA is currently taking comment on its separate proposal to repeal the Clean Power Plan.

Two protesters interrupted Pruitt at the beginning of his appearance, although they were immediately drowned out by the booing crowd and escorted from the room by security. It was unclear what specific issues they were protesting.

"This is a little bit of an example of what we deal with here," Pruitt said in response, drawing laughter and clapping from the audience.
