

1 You know what they decide to do? What they 2 decide to do is because they want to promote 3 fiberglass, they try and figure out a way to trash the 4 competition, asbestos-containing pipecovering and 5 block, so what do they do?

6 They are testing their fiberglass and in '41
7 they get a letter back from Saranac Labs saying
8 fiberglass will not cause injury like asbestos.

9 I mean, he is telling them that right off
10 the bat, and they have a history of information with 11 Saranac Labs and knowledge, and what is very 12 important, ladies and gentlemen, what is very 13 important, in 1942 a man named Ames who was an 14 assistant to -- an assistant at Owens-Corning writes a 15 letter to Marshall who is a lawyer and a copy goes to 16 this man named Boeschenstein who is the head of 17 Owens-Corning, and it is called the weapon in reserve
18 document.

19 What is going on here, ladies and gentlemen,
20 is that Owens-Corning Fiberglas is trying to sell
21 their product. So what they want to do is they want
