

ers, Dr. Grayson N. Kefauver, dean of the Stanford University school of education, told the annual conference of California city, county and district superintendents of schools at Del Monte yesterday.

"Married teachers should be appraised on their merits, applying the same standards that would be applied for unmarried teachers," Dean Kefauver said in an address on "The Administrator's Responsibility for Teacher Growth and Curriculum Development."

Above is a facsimile reproduction of a proclamation which Governor Culbert L. Olson signed yesterday morning while at Del Monte to address the annual convention of California State school superintendents. (Confidentially, the governor had issued the proclamation some days ago but it seemed so much better to have something really official that The Herald asked him to sign one especially for local use—and Governor Olson's secretaries, Messrs. Jensen and Henderson, helped the conspiracy along, with the governor himself graciously cooperating when he was "let in" on it). Below is a picture of Governor Olson at the desk in Jack Beaumont's private office, just as he finished signing the document reproduced above.

Another Black Cow Killed on Highway

SALINAS, Oct. 7.—The Castroville-Salinas highway, especially at night, is not place for Black Angus cattle. It became clear today.

A car driven by Mrs. J. D. Brown, Salinas, killed a cow of that breed at about 10:30 Thursday night at the place where a Castroville motorist fatally injured a heifer only a day or two earlier.

Black cattle are hard to see at night both motorists told highway patrolmen.

When the Panama canal was opened, in 1914, many New York newspapers took no notice of the event whatever. The reason was that war had broken out in Europe a few days before. Since that time 100,000 vessels carrying a billion tons of cargo have moved through the waterway.
