

LEO MANVILLE
Winner of the Championship
Match

Wow! What a Win!

U. S. 22 N. R. A.'s Sweep the Boards Again at the Metropolitan Matches

WHEN the walls of the 47th Regiment Armory in Brooklyn had echoed to the last shot of the 1926 Metropolitan matches, it was found that marksmen using U. S. 22 N. R. A.'s had again swept the boards. This is the fourth time 22 N. R. A.'s have cleaned up in the five times that this 100-yard indoor classic has been held.

First, second and third in the championship. First, second and third in the preliminaries. Fourteen of the first twenty places in the championship. Fourteen of the first twenty places in the preliminaries. The first "possible" on each of the three nights of the preliminary matches. The smallest "possible" (tied). All these honors went to shooters of U. S. 22 N. R. A.'s.

And what shooters they proved themselves to be!

Leo Manville, in winning first place in the championship with 495, made a score that has been beaten but once in the history of the Metropolitan matches.

The same score was registered by Jerry Hilborn, but he dropped to second place as Manville's lowest ten-shot score was a 99 while his own was a 98. Hilborn, however, with a perfect 1000, had previously won the preliminaries, in which Mrs. Hilborn with 997 and Joseph Martin with 994 had taken second and third respectively.

Mrs. Hilborn was one of the outstanding figures in the matches. In carrying away second honors in the preliminaries, she broke the women's record of the 100-yard shooting. In addition to this, she made a shot "possible"—a group that was equalled by no other shooter. The group had a spread of but one inch and three one-hundredths.

One-hundred-yard indoor shooting is the acid test of accuracy of small-bore ammunition. There is no change of light. If the cartridge and the shooter are accurate, he will get what he holds for—no matter how long he holds it. The fact that the following shooters won the places in the Metropolitan matches with U. S. 22 N. R. A. is a convincing proof of the accuracy of these superlative

JOSEPH MARTIN
Winner of Third Place in the Preliminaries

JERRY HILBORN
Winner of Second Place in the Championship and First Place in the Preliminaries

Championship Match
1st	Leo Manville..... 495
2nd	Jerry Hilborn..... 495
3rd	Paul Landrock..... 483
4th	George Denster..... 490
7th	Walter Kelsey..... 489
9th	Charles St. John..... 488
10th	Joseph Martin..... 488

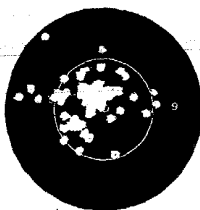

Preliminary Match
1st	Jerry Hilborn..... 997
2nd	Mrs. Hilborn..... 994
3rd	Joseph Martin..... 994
6th	Paul Landrock..... 988
7th	Charles Johnson..... 988
8th	Charles Johnston..... 988
10th	Morton Solomon..... 988

UNITED STATES CARTRIDGE CO.

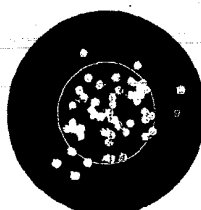

111 Broadway New York, N. Y.

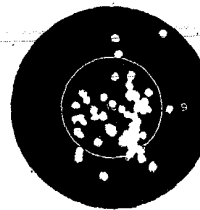

Composite of Hilborn's 100-Shot

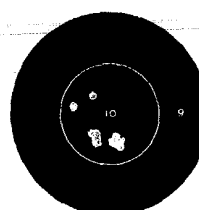

Composite of 80 Shots by Hilborn

Composite of Manville's 50 Shots

Composite of 50 Shots by Landrock

10-Shot Group Mrs. Hilborn's 100-Shot