Disease Rates Under New Illinois Laws Are Given

PRESENT ALTERNATIVE PLANS

Assured May Buy Full Coverage Or Loss Contribution Scheme—Assigned Risk Still Problem

The rates are now available for occupational disease coverage under the new laws which becomes effective in Illinois Oct. 1. The scale was prepared by the National Council on Compensation Insurance.

Employers will have the choice of purchasing full coverage or a plan under which the assured pays for 50 percent of every disease loss up to the maximum of $1,000 per case. The rates for the second plan will be 25 percent less than the full coverage rates.

A minimum premium of $5 is established. This is regarded as too low by most of the Chicago experts.

William Leslie, associate general manager National Bureau of Casualty & Surety Underwriters, returning from the meeting of the insurance commissioners in St. Paul, had a conference with the membership of the Casualty Managers Club of Chicago, following which he conferred with Chairman Angsten of the Illinois Industrial Commission. Mr. Leslie was particularly interested in the problem of assigning risks, which are unable to obtain occupational disease coverage. At the meeting with managers, the prevailing view was that the insuring of occupational disease under the new Illinois law should not be a problem if the assured does a proper job of housecleaning. However, it is recognized that a good many employers will be lax. The conclusion was that the companies as a group or through a committee would undertake to get the cooperation of the industrial commission in setting up requirements to which an assured must comply in order to get insurance. Then when an assured has complied with those requirements, the companies through their assigned risk committee would cooperate in seeing that coverage is obtained.

Under the new set up, occupational disease legislation in Illinois is entirely distinct from the law governing compensation for industrial accidents. Previously where an uncertain measure of disease liability was included in the workmen's compensation law, the companies have been getting a loading in the regular compensation premium. This loading will be eliminated effective Oct. 1 and a revised accident compensation scale promulgated.

Below are given the new rates for occupational disease coverage for the various classifications in Illinois:

Claimant's Attorney Wins Fee in Interference Suit

Adjusters for casualty companies must be cautious about interfering with the relations between a claimant and his attorney. The New York court of appeals has just decided against the company in a suit for his fee brought by the injured's attorney on the ground that representatives of the company induced the claimant to repudiate the attorney, and settle without him. The allegations were that the attorney was retained by the injured claimant, but that representatives of the company threatened the claimant that unless he repudiated his retainer he would receive no compensation for his injuries. After the claimant broke off with the attorney, the company paid $25,000 and took a general release. The attorney thereupon brought suit and recovered a verdict for $6,250, on an alleged agreement of 25 percent of the recovery. The court reduced this, with the consent of the lawyer, to $2,500 as the reasonable value of the lawyer's services in investigating the claim, interviewing the witnesses, taking photographs, etc. The judgment as reduced was affirmed by the New York court of appeals.

Indemnity Policy Test Case Is Ruled Upon in Illinois

What appears to be the first test under the Illinois law to provide claimants a direct recourse against the insurance company under automobile liability policies has been ruled upon by the Illinois appellate court, 1st district, in the case of Trust Co. of Chicago vs. Iroquois Auto Insurance Underwriters, Inc.

The law provides that "the insurance company shall be liable to the person entitled to recover for death or injury when caused by the insured, in the same manner and to the same extent that such carrier is liable to the insured." The curious effect of this is, if taken literally, that the claimant is left just where he was before the law was passed, under so-called "indemnity" policies. Such laws were passed in most states for the very purpose of giving the injured claimant the benefit of the insurance when the insured driver is unable to pay. The policy in this case was an "indemnity" policy, by which payment was promised only to reimburse the insured after he had paid the injured. In this case the insured had not paid the injured.

Without going into the reasoning which led to its conclusion the appellate court said that the indemnity provision was contrary to the statute and therefore ineffective and void. The case was remanded with directions to enter a judgment in favor of plaintiff for the amount of its claims. The trust company held a judgment of $3,000 for the death of Juzang.

Undoubtedly the appellate court gave the effect to the law that was intended, but it had to go easy in giving its reasoning.

Dust Disease Procedure

NEW YORK, June 24.—Approval of rules and rates for classifications subject to specific dust hazards under the state law, prepared by the Compensation Insurance Rating Board of New York having been given by Superintendent L. H. Pink, became effective coincident with operation of dust disease amendments to the statute. All carriers have been advised by General Manager L. S. Senior of the method to be followed.

Purchases Building

The State Automobile, an automobile reciprocal of Indianapolis has bought the Medical Arts building in that city on southeast corner of Michigan and Pennsylvania streets, of which it will occupy two floors and the basement for home office purposes.

Riders for High-L Discount Plans A

Companies have now been furnished by the Massachusetts Rating & Inspection Bureau with copies of retrospective premium and premium discount endorsements for compensation risks. These riders doubtless will serve as models for other states.

Large risks that do not elect to be retrospectively rated, will receive in Massachusetts a rebate of 11.4 percent on that portion of the premium above $5,000. The bureau does not state whether commissions will be reduced on the premium above $5,000. In the retrospective plan no commission is paid on any premium above the retrospective minimum.

The premium discount endorsement is to be attached to each policy for which the estimated annual premium amounts to at least $2,000, where the retrospective plan is not used. No policy may be canceled and rewritten for this purpose.

Text of Discount Rider

The premium discount endorsement reads:

It is agreed that all premium for the policy in excess of $5,000 developed by the application of the standard rates of the Massachusetts Rating & Inspection Bureau shall be reduced 11.4 percent; provided, however, that the provisions of this endorsement apply solely to the premium for operations covered by the policy which, for purposes of premium determination, are subject to the jurisdiction of said bureau.

The retrospective premium endorsement, omitting the table of rating values, reads:

Additional percentage of standard premium required by paragraph 5 (a) of this endorsement: — percent.

It is agreed that the premium for the policy shall be determined as follows:

1. Elements in development of retrospective premium—The computation of the retrospective premium is based upon the following elements:

(a) Standard premium—The premium computed in accordance with the provisions of the policy, other than this endorsement, shall be known as the standard premium. The earned standard premium shall be used to determine the basic premium, the minimum retrospective premium and the maximum retrospective premium.

(b) Basic premium—The basic premium is that percentage of the earned standard premium stated in the "basic premium" column of the "table of rating values" schedule which forms a part of this endorsement.

(c) Incurred losses—Incurred losses, under the policy, shall mean the actual paid losses and the reserves as estimated by the company for unpaid losses.

2. Retrospective premium—The retrospective premium is the sum of:

(a) The basic premium; and
(b) The incurred losses; and
(c) 15 percent of the incurred losses.

The retrospective premium is the premium for the policy, provided, however, that if such premium is less than the minimum retrospective premium, the minimum retrospective premium shall be the premium for the policy; and if such premium is more than the maximum retrospective premium, the maximum retrospective premium shall be the premium for the policy.

Minimum retrospective premium—The minimum retrospective premium is that percentage of the earned standard premium stated in the "minimum retrospective premium" column of the "table of rating values" schedule.

Maximum retrospective premium—The maximum retrospective premium is that percentage of the earned standard premium stated in the "maximum retrospective premium" column of the "table of rating values" schedule.

3. Initial computation of retrospective premium—Within six months after the termination of the policy the company shall make an audit of the records of the employer in order to compute the earned standard premium, and to determine therefrom, the basic premium.

Within 20 days of the termination of the policy, the company shall determine the unpaid losses, including the unpaid losses, and shall then mail the retrospective premium schedule to the employer.

From the 1st day of the month following the month in which the retrospective premium schedule is mailed, the employer shall then mail the retrospective premium schedule to the employer.

4. Subsequent premium—The subsequent premium shall be recomputed on the determination of the retrospective premium schedule of the 30 months of the policy.

Twenty-four months after the determination of the retrospective premium, the employer shall compute the retrospective premium, and shall then mail the retrospective premium schedule to the employer.

The retrospective premium schedule shall be computed on the basis of the retrospective premium schedule of the 30 months of the policy.

The retrospective premium schedule shall be computed on the basis of the retrospective premium schedule of the 30 months of the policy.

The retrospective premium schedule shall be computed on the basis of the retrospective premium schedule of the 30 months of the policy.

5. Payable (a) Stand thereof—The premium, thereof, shall be computed on the basis of the retrospective premium schedule of the 30 months of the policy.

(b) Retrospective premium—The retrospective premium shall be computed on the basis of the retrospective premium schedule of the 30 months of the policy.

(c) Incurred losses—The incurred losses shall be computed on the basis of the retrospective premium schedule of the 30 months of the policy.

(d) Standard premium—The standard premium shall be computed on the basis of the retrospective premium schedule of the 30 months of the policy.

(e) Basic premium—The basic premium shall be computed on the basis of the retrospective premium schedule of the 30 months of the policy.

(f) Incurred losses—The incurred losses shall be computed on the basis of the retrospective premium schedule of the 30 months of the policy.

Paul P. Seitz, president, presided at the meeting and reported healthy gains in business for the first five months of 1936. Gustave Bartels of the auto theft division of the state attorney's office, Chicago, described how thefts have been reduced and how insurance companies have cooperated by reducing rates. Special Agent Hoyman of the northern Illinois territory; Leon F. Knipschild, claims department; C. P. Young, secretary and treasurer; C. W. Richards and Chas. M. Fish, underwriting department, also spoke.

The Insurance Women's Association of Portland, Ore., elected Mildred Coleman as president.

It is interesting to compare the Illinois rates with those in other states. Whereas in Illinois there is a rate of $2.96 for foundlings, in California there are two foundling classifications, one of which takes a rate of $2.82 and the other $3.29.

NEW YORK, June 21—The 17th victim in the Bronx apartment building collapse died today. The general contractor and a number of the subcontractors on the job carried compensation insurance in the New York state fund. What the aggregate liability will be to the carrier, for those killed and the considerable number injured will be an estimate conjectured now. It is bound to be heavy.

NEWARK, June 21.—Two motor vehicle measures have been passed by the New Jersey legislature and are before Governor Hoffman for signature. They had the backing of casualty companies. One provides for the compulsory examination of automobiles while the other gives motor vehicle inspectors police power. There will be a charge of 50 cents for the examination of the car, which must be paid by the owner. A fine for the first offense will not exceed $100 and $200 will be levied against one refusing to make repairs or adjustments suggested by the inspector. Arrests by inspectors may be made only for violations which occur on highway.

The Casualty & Surety Field M^a Association of Los Angeles held a dinner with J. E. Tucker, special agent Globe Indemnity and president of club, presiding.

The Transportation Insurers of Richmond, Va., has been incorporated and will specialize in writing motor bus and truck coverage. L. C. Witherspoon, president.
