I'm working on trying to find some options for you. It has not been promising thus far but EPA moves slowly also. I'll try to have some more information on this tomorrow.

Thank you for this. Let me work on this and I'll get back with you very shortly if not tomorrow. The first two are easy. I'm working on the others.

I am really excited about the Administrator's enthusiasm for change. I would like to continue our discussions regarding my joining your team, but have a few questions:

> 2) I believe you mentioned the possibility of helping with moving expenses. If so, how much would that be? In addition, or in the alternative, is a hiring bonus possible?

> 3) Would you and the Administrator be willing to name me the Chief of Operations for EPA as a working title? I think it would send a signal internally and externally that I have been hired to continue the work I have been doing in Arizona.

> 4) As I have stated, I am a little concerned with the salary (even though I completely understand the financial sacrifice we all make to have the opportunity to serve our citizens). My wife is currently fully employed, making around $90,000/year. She is a legitimate environmental professional, having worked for EPA Region IX and the Arizona Department of Environmental Quality as Deputy Division Director for Waste Programs (until I became Director and we decided it was best for her to find another opportunity in State government - which she did). Would it be possible for you to find her employment in EPA? It would help our financial decision immensely. If not out of the question, I would be happy to forward her resume and references (which I would suggest you check - everyone loves her almost as much as I do).
