Mr. H. R. Bryant,
Robert F. Coleman, Inc.,
948 Union Trust Building,
Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

Dear Mr. Bryant:

In accordance with your request, I am sending you a series of articles on the subject of lead poisoning which I trust will be of interest and of practical use to you. Among these articles you will find rather extensive reference to other work, and therefore, this is the best manner in which I can be of assistance to you.

Within the next week or two I shall have reprints of a series of articles which appeared in a symposium on Lead Poisoning at the joint convention of the American Association of Industrial Physicians and Surgeons, and the American Industrial Hygiene Association, in April of last year. This has been delayed in printing, but it gives certain phases of the matter in a way in which they are not available elsewhere. I shall send you a copy when they are received.

I should like also to refer you to the chapter on Lead Poisoning in a book which is now being published by Wilkins and Williams, under the editorship of Fred Wampler, of the Medical College of Richmond, Virginia. I refer specifically to this chapter, since I think it gives the most comprehensive general review of the subject that is likely to be available for some time. I should like also to refer you to the first section of a report of the Committee on Lead Poisoning of the American Public Health Association. The final report is in the process of completion, but will probably not be available for some months. The first section, however, has been printed and can be had at a cost of 30 cents per copy, at the New York office of the American Public Health Association, 1790 Broadway, New York City. I think you will be able to find in all of these a fairly complete handling of the subject.

Very truly yours,

Robert A. Kehoe, M. D.
