Dear Jean-Claude:

It was certainly a pleasure having you visit our U.S. PVC producers. By now, I hope you have received your copy of the extensive document submitted to the Food and Drug Administration.

Don't worry about the Mayflower Hotel at all. The bill has been taken care of - and it was a pleasure.

I am sure that we will have many communications during 1976 and that I will have an opportunity to see you when I come across to your side of the ocean in June.

Cordially,

Dear Henner:

Thanks so much for the information you gave me on the telephone this morning. Enclosed is a copy of the letter I have just dictated on this matter. I do not propose to include your name directly or indirectly in any of the correspondence.

Under separate cover I am today airmailing our complete statement to the Food and Drug Administration, the proposed EPA Standard on VCM Emissions plus miscellaneous recent press commentary on the situation.

Cordially,

Dear Henner:

Thanks very much for sending us a copy of the Interim Report on your Toxicity Study with Vinyl Chloride with Rats. We are passing this along to the appropriate people among our members and especially to Jerry Heckman, our General Counsel, who is in full charge of our negotiations with the Food and Drug Administration.

Cordially,

John Lawrence - John, I think this ought to go out rather widely to the VCM/PVC group.
