RE: ASTM C-428-73d; ASBESTOS-CEMENT NON-PRESSURE SEWER PIPE

On the last printing of the above specification, unfortunately ASTM inadvertently omitted part of a paragraph that could be important to a prospective customer. The paragraph in question is 5.2.

In addition to the information already contained in paragraph 5.2, the following statement was not, but should have been included.

> "Instead of requiring performance tests, the purchaser may require the manufacturer to certify that the pipe and couplings equivalent in material and design, have passed the tests enumerated in this section."

As you know, some accounts do ask for this type of certification. The omission has not caused us any problems and this bulletin is written to reassure you that we have and will continue to give the certification when it is asked for.

The missing statement will be incorporated in the next printing of the specification probably in 1975.
