projector, and we are projecting them on the screen in the courtroom, and to me, Doctor, it looks like nothing more than different colored ink.

Is there more than just ink there?

A Yes, it is.

Q There is a pointer right there.

A Basically you have seen the little slides. This was the specimen -- this was the biopsy specimen that they did.

They went in and they got a piece of Mr. Wood's pleura out. And the reason I made these little green circles is because this inside the little circles is all basically the pleura and tumor that was present.

All of the rest of this is blood clot that came with the specimen and it doesn't have anything to do with the tumor. It is just that that is what you get basically when you cut on somebody.

I showed you these to show you basically what a phenomenally small amount of tissue that I have to work with, because I said in this tissue I found at
