Q—I have a pair of varnished wash tubs in basement. Can they be painted?—M.L.

A.—You can paint the side with enamel, without undercoater. It is better to apply two thin coats than thick one. Avoid excess brushing.

Q—I have light green w a blue and white print on upholstered pieces, with a little yellow in it, and chairs covered with blue. The accent colors in room are green and yellow with some brass and glass. Should I use in descent or fluorescent lighting?—D.G.

A.—That depends on w colors you want to emphasize under artificial lighting. Candescent lighting emphasizes reds and yellows, tones down blues and green while white fluorescent intensifies blues and greens and tones down reds and yellows. Considering the colors in your room, I suggest white fluorescent light but you might experiment to find the effect pleases you most.

Q—I am planning to have my first luncheon party and I am not sure about candles on the table. Would it be correct to use them without lighting them?—E.V.

A.—No, candles may be used on dinner tables but not on luncheon tables.
