March 11, 1974

Frank Bilton's memo dated March 7, 1974 about Wollastonite supply was good news for a complete production change but, on the other hand, bad news concerning the machine's modifications. As you all know, we tried unsuccessfully to get holding tank and middling tank modifications since April - May, 1973.

Now, because of that, we will be forced to sacrifice, probably, the machine productivity and product quality.

My opinion is that Mr. Vandemark should call for a meeting inviting all interested factors to work out a strictly followed schedule. Otherwise, the Wollastonite storage will be a problem and more than that the penalties paid for that storage will absorb probably a good part of company profits.
