 DESCRIPTION:The Shanghai Health Study is a major project of Shell\, along with 4 other sponsoring companies (BP\, ChevronTexaco\, ConocoPhillips\ and ExxonMobil)\, to study the potential effects of benzene exposure on human health. The study is being done in Shanghai\, China. An earlier NCI (National Cancer Institute) study was done there with questionable results and there are still high exposures to benzene in places like shoe factories.\n\nNancy Sullivan has been the business sponsor. Now that Nancy is moving to a new position\, we need to transition with the new Base Chemicals business. \n\nDial in number: 1 713 423

Subject: Shanghai Health Study - MOD - Sept 15, 2004

Thank you to everyone who participated on the call today. I have drafted a MOD. Please review and send any comments to me. I will begin working on the action items right away. Harshad, please let me know when you will be in the US, so the briefing can be scheduled.

Regards,
Patsy
