W. Sullivan of San Francisco, came down a few days ago and has purchased twenty-six acres of land on Foothills avenue.

C. A. Hills, who has been employed for some time teaming in San Francisco, met with an accident, dislocating his arm and came home last week.

A cluster of grapes has been shipped daily from this point to Irvington for the past ten days. The total output is expected to be about fifty-five carloads.

Joseph Bonge, who lives on Center avenue, has a cucumber in his garden 15 inches long and the same number of inches in circumference and still growing.

L. L. Wheeler, Center avenue, has returned from Los Gatos, where he has been engaged in drying and handling prunes on the Gould ranch on the Shannon road. He reports a very successful season.

Many improvements of property are being made in this vicinity, notwithstanding the busy fruit season. A new cottage has just been completed by C. Kratz on Center avenue; another by Watkins, on Columbet street. There are numerous other improvements, such as the painting of cottages, enlarging barns, and other outbuildings.

A party of surveyors, said to be in the employ of the Western Pacific, were working on a survey through San Martin along Columbet avenue for several days last week. The survey was made past Morgan Hill east of the Southern Pacific railroad track, thence along Columbet avenue half a mile east of San Martin south to Rucker and from there in the direction of Coyote, Such a road, if put through would be of great benefit to the south end of the Santa Clara valley.

stunning of the town's growth ... extant.

If you could figure up the Dollar Bills that leave town in the secret manner, like taking French leave—which you don't—you would know just how much the town is stunted by indulgence in this mail order fever.

If these Dollar Bills were really good and enterprising citizens they would stay at home and circulate around, helping things along. How many of your Dollar Bills take the midnight express out of town on the Hawthorne Route?

The case of Catherine Dunne vs. Mary F. Beamer has been on trial in Judge Welch's department of the Superior Court this week. Mrs. Dunne asks for possession of a farm which she claims Mrs. Beamer is occupying unlawfully. She says that for two years Mrs. Beamer has used the land, and is indebted to her for $150 as rental.

The defendant avers that she purchased the farm in October, 1900, from Mrs Dunne, paying $10 down, and the balance $840 to be paid in two years. About the same time, Mrs. Beamer declares, she entered into an agreement with the plaintiff, whereby the latter was to handle and dispose of the hay grown on the land. Mrs. Beamer says this agreement was carried out on her part, but that Mrs. Dunne never gave her any counting of the sums realized by the sale of the hay. These sums, however, exceed the $840 that she owed the plaintiff, she alleges.

Treatment of Dutch Children.

The Dutch peasant lives with canals all about him and reaches his cottage by way of a drawbridge. Perhaps it's in the blood of a Dutch child not to fall into a canal. At all events, the Dutch mother never appears to anticipate such a possibility. One can imagine the average English or American mother trying to bring up a family in a house surrounded by canals. She never would have a minute's peace until the children were in bed. But, then, the mere sight of a canal to the English child suggests the delights of a sudden and unexpected bath.

An Englishman inquired of a Dutchwoman, "Does a Dutch child by any chance ever fall into a canal?"

"Yes," she replied; "seven have been known."

"Don't you do anything for it?" continued the questioner.

"Oh, yes," she answered; "we haul them out again."

"But what I mean is," explained the Englishman, "don't you do anything to prevent them falling in—to save them from falling in again?"

"Yes," she answered; "we spank them."—London World.

That [illegible] Sentinel has joined the list of papers who believe the price should be raised. It says: "The movement all over the State toward a higher price for the country weekly has been in evidence for some time past. Several Michigan papers have already put the subscription rate up to $2.00. The latest price prevails in the eastern states. The cause of this is evident. The price of nearly everything is higher. Living expenses all along the line cost much more than ten years ago. It is so with all kinds of material. The rise has been steady. Print paper, for instance, when the Sentinel purchased its last car in January was about $2.35 per hundredweight. Since then it has soared to $2.85 and is still going higher, this following a gradual rise during the past few years. Body type used in the publication of a newspaper is 63 cents a pound as compared with 29 cents in 1899. All along the line the prices are up correspondingly. But in the face of it all the same old price for the weekly paper has prevailed, and even then many subscriptions have to be carried more than a year.

Signs of Long Life.

In view of the diversified testimony of present day centenarians on the subject of longevity and its causes, it is interesting to get a little light on the subject from Queen Elizabeth's time.

"Bacon took a deep interest in longevity and its curiosities," says a physician, "and Bacon's signs of long life and of short life are as true today as they ever were. You won't live long, Bacon pointed out, if you have soft, fine hair, a fine skin, quick growth, large head, early corpulence, short neck, small mouth, little and separated teeth and fat ears. Your life, barring accidents, will be very lengthy if you have slow growth, coarse hair, a rough skin, deep wrinkles in the forehead, firm flesh, a large mouth, wide nostrils, strong teeth set close together and a hard, gristly ear."

The Claw of the Devil.

In the middle ages people recognized witches and possessed persons by seeking on their bodies for what was called the claw of the devil. It was a more or less extensive part of the skin in which the subject was insensible to any touch or prick. The expert intrusted with this work would close the eyes of the subject and, armed with a sharp needle, prick here and there the different parts of the body. The sufferer was to answer with a cry to each [illegible] on a
