

So you don't want to work for a
lead company.

Then why consider National Lead?

Because we're much more than a lead company.

Sure we deal in lead-based products. But that's only a small part of the whole story. We're also in chemicals, nuclear energy, aerospace, plastics, automotive, home products, building materials, metals, paint, mining . . . and more, much more. You name it, we're in it.

That's where we are today. But in the future we're likely to be in industries that are now only in the test tube, or on the drawing board—or maybe only in somebody's mind. Our research and development is geared to anticipate new requirements for both industry and consumer in this era of rapid technological innovation and change.

National Lead is one of the world's most diversified organizations with more than 50 divisions and subsidiaries producing over 200 different product categories. Annual sales are approximately three quarters of a billion dollars.

And just think, you almost passed us by because of our name.
