GE Changes PCB Stand

PAGE ONE

ALBANY (AP) — The General Electric Co. is prepared to meet federal guidelines in its discharge of a dangerous pollutant into the Hudson River, a company attorney indicated Friday.

Speaking after a state Environmental Conservation Department hearing aimed at halting all discharges of the chemical known as PCB, N. Earle Evans said GE would not challenge a federal order limiting discharges to 3½ ounces a day by 1977.

One day earlier, GE rejected a state request that it cut its PCB dumping to two pounds a day by the end of the year.
