Hey Dunham -

Roses are red,
Ethanol is green,
NEC is next week,
Don't ghost the scene!

This is your very last chance to register for the National Ethanol Conference, the must-attend event for ethanol leaders, innovators, policy makers, and industry pros. We noticed you haven't quite confirmed you'll join us. Consider this your love letter (or dramatic rom-com airport scene) where we urge you to pack your bags and head straight for Nashville, TN!

Join us for:

- Networking Opportunities: Meet and mingle with the industry's top minds and make connections that will last longer than a box of chocolates.
- Government Policies: Get the latest scoop on ethanol regulations and policies that will make your heart skip a beat.
- Business Development: Discover new strategies and insights to grow your business and make it flourish like a bouquet of roses.
- Ethanol Markets: Gain the latest info on ethanol markets and trends that will leave you swooning.

Get ready to be swept off your feet by expert discussions:

- Back to the Beginning: Celebrating Our Roots: As the renewable fuels sector celebrates several important milestones in 2025, hear from the visionary farmers, investors, and builders who founded the modern-day ethanol industry.

- Navigating the Future of Clean Fuel Tax Incentives: Leading tax policy experts explore the path forward for key provisions under the Inflation Reduction Act, including 45Z, as well as the Second-Generation Biofuel Production Tax Credit. The panel explores emerging issues, compliance challenges, and opportunities shaping decisions in the ethanol industry.
- Cashing in on Carbon Markets? Experts and analysts discuss what's happening—and not happening—in U.S. and global carbon markets. From regulated markets like state LCFS programs and international carbon policies to voluntary markets and tax incentives, learn about the opportunities and challenges that lie ahead for farmers and biofuel producers interested in monetizing carbon reduction.
- Back to the Future: Ethanol's Role in Heavy-Duty and Aviation: Ethanol's abundant supply, low cost, and low carbon intensity value continue to make it an attractive option for decarbonizing aviation, as well as heavy-duty vehicles and equipment. Hear from innovative companies about the latest developments in new markets and new applications for ethanol.
- Power Outage or Power Surge? What is the Future of Electric Vehicles? Electric vehicles remain at the center of discussions around the energy transition and transformation of the auto industry. But there have been many bumps on the road to electrification, and the future path for EVs isn't clear. This panel explores the innovations and trends shaping the future of EVs, as well as the latest on consumer acceptance and the expected impact of policy and regulation.

Don't leave ethanol hanging and be part of an event that promises to be as sweet as a Valentine's Day treat. ❤️

Register now, before it's too late!

See you in Music City!

Warmest regards,

Sincerely,

Mary Giglio
