

[illegible]

1. The first step is to identify the problem or issue that needs to be addressed. This involves gathering information and understanding the context of the problem.

Children's lead poisoning among children living in the area near the smelter came to light in Feb. 22, 1966 before the opening of the investigation. ADR-2 was identified through a survey of 220 children and adults living in the area. The survey identified 100 children with up to five cases of lead poisoning. Subsequently, surveys for the city and state have identified 100 children with up to five cases of lead poisoning. The smelter's release of 200 tons of lead dust into the air each year from the smelter's waste water. Some testimony has also been given that the smelter has had poisoning cases have been produced by ingestion of Wall St. Journal March 24, 1972.