Also pursuant to exemptions 7(C) and (D) and 29CFR 70.27 names and other identifying information have been deleted on various pages of the report. Exemption 7(C) recognizes that names of persons may become part of an investigative file and that individuals have a right to have their identities withheld in order to be protected from possible harassment or unwarranted invasion of their personal privacy. Exemption 7(D) protects the names and any information which would tend to identify a person who gave information to the investigator in confidence. Failure of the government to protect its confidential sources would soon become known so that few people would come forward voluntarily to give information from fear of harassment or reluctance to become embroiled in a controversy.

In the event you wish to appeal this decision, you have 90 days from the date of this letter to notify the Solicitor of Labor, Department of Labor, Washington, D . C. 20210 in writing of your appeal.
