Dear Julius:

Thanks for sending my file of copies of non-asbestos certification letters. I am contacting the other suppliers which you had listed at the bottom of the letter. There was a letter in the folder, however, for Code 11005 (R. E. Carroll Inc.) and I am returning that letter to you.

I have already contact A. E. Staley regarding Code 20032 which is a new material and should have something soon from them. We do not use Code 14019 any longer and new formulas will be coming to you in the near future which contained this material.

We do not buy Code 41009 from United States Gypsum Co. anymore as we buy it all from Georgia Pacific Corp., and that letter was in the file.

Mozell Chemical is supposed to get letters out regarding Codes 11031, 11016, and 10007 to me as soon as possible.

I have contacted our supplier of Code 20044 numerous times, and again today, and they assure me we should be getting a response soon.

All of the other code numbers you mention are liquid materials. I have not contacted them as yet but will do so.

Regards,

P.S. As mentioned above, attached is the letter covering Code 11005 from R. E. Carroll

P.S.S. I just received the letter of certification regarding non-asbestos from A. E. Staley Company in today's mail and I am attaching it also. We just starting using this material since February of this year. We kept the same code number, which used to be Tapex from Natinnal Starch & Chemical Co. You might want your girl to go over your formula copies and mark A.E. Staley Company as the source for this material and the name of it is now #113-105 Starch instead of Tapex.
