Editorial

With the help of our readers, we can make this the most informative magazine about the water industry in the Southwest. That's why we call it YOUR magazine, because without you it won't happen.

As you will see by this issue, we're already running stories and features that you will never find in trade or the national magazines. We publish details about specific Southwest happenings that other publications don't have space or time for.

We want to tell your stories, too, about individual experiences, as well as major construction and events taking place in districts and utilities.

Give us your ideas, input and suggestions for making the Waterworks really serve you. (Use this convenient form and the postage free envelope.)

And, while you're at it, send for details about advertisers' products and services. There's no obligation, and their ads "pay the freight" in bringing the magazine to you.

They just may save you big bucks and time on the job!
