Stuart---thank you very much for taking time to pass along your kind words about the API team working with you and the others on the benzene study. We are very proud of our terrific staff, and it is nice to see that reflected in their work in service to our members.....red

Red and Howard:

Just a note of thanks for the efforts of Madeleine, Bruce, Lorraine, and Paula - and others behind them at API - for putting together a very successful meeting last week.

This I am sure was no easy task as we moved from plenary to peer review to business meetings.

The success of the meeting was ultimately a reflection of the quality of the science, the investigators, the peer reviewers, and the process that had been in the works for a few years. However, the API staff should be commended for their efforts for putting the meeting together so that scientific and programmatic discussion time was optimized.

Stuart
