ATTORNEYS FOR DEFENDANT WESTINGHOUSE ELECTRIC CORPORATION

CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE

This is to certify that a true and correct copy of the foregoing Westinghouse Electric Corporation's First Amended Objections and Responses to Plaintiffs' Interrogatories served on or about September 24, 1993 has been forwarded to counsel for Plaintiffs via hand delivery on the 24 day of November, 1993. All other known counsel of record were notified of the filing of this document by letter only.

MARK A. HENDRIX

Objection Pursuant to Rule 168(5)

Westinghouse has a history of cooperation with Plaintiffs' counsel, Baron & Budd, and has produced substantial discovery consisting of documents, witnesses and answers to interrogatories. The Texas Rules of Civil Procedure provide, however, that the questions in a set of interrogatories, including subsections, may not require more than thirty answers. TEX. R. CIV. P. 168(5). The present set is divided into four questions. Each of the first three, however, requires separate answers regarding information on 36 different documents. Thus, responding to this set of interrogatories would require 109 separate answers. Westinghouse, therefore, objects to the number of answers required by this set of interrogatories in excess of the first thirty.

Preliminary Statement and General Objections

The current interrogatories request verification of the authenticity of certain documents, some of which presumably were previously produced by Westinghouse to Plaintiffs, along with thousands of other documents. While some of these documents were produced by Westinghouse, Westinghouse cannot answer how they arrived in the files, who placed them there or under what circumstances they came to the files. Many of these documents were not prepared by Westinghouse, and Westinghouse cannot attest to their authenticity. Specifically, Westinghouse lacks the first-hand knowledge necessary to determine whether each of these documents is genuine and authentic. Likewise, many of the documents cannot be confirmed as originating from Westinghouse, because Plaintiffs have supplied copies that do not carry a readable bates number, appear to be missing pages or contain pages that do not appear to be part of the original document. Furthermore, many of the documents themselves are illegible. Finally, many documents on their face appear to be Westinghouse documents, but contain extraneous typed or hand-written information that would not have been found on the original document. Again, without knowing the source of the document or at least the source of this extraneous information, Westinghouse cannot attest to the documents' authenticity. In essence, Plaintiffs have failed to provide sufficient information for Westinghouse to provide more specific responses. For these reasons, Westinghouse objects to these interrogatories pursuant to Texas Rule of Civil Procedure 166b(4).

All responses to these interrogatories are made without waiving: (1) the right to object on the grounds of competency, relevancy, materiality, hearsay or any other proper grounds; (2) the right to object to the use of any such information for any purpose, in whole or in part, in any subsequent stage or proceeding in this action or any other action; or (3) the right to object on any and all grounds, at any time, to any other discovery procedure relating to the subject matter of these interrogatories.

Without waiving these objections, Westinghouse further responds to the interrogatories as follows:

INTERROGATORY NO. 2: For each document listed below, please answer whether such document was kept and/or generated in the regular course of a regularly conducted business activity of any Westinghouse Entity by an employee or representative of any Westinghouse Entity with knowledge of the act, event, condition or opinion recorded.

ANSWER: Because hundreds of thousands of pages of documents have been made available to Plaintiffs from a large variety of sources within Westinghouse, Westinghouse is unable to determine whether these materials were maintained in the regular course of regularly conducted business activity. In addition, many of these documents contain extraneous handwritten or typed notations obviously not a part of the original document and whose origin is unknown. Therefore, Westinghouse cannot attest that these documents as attached, were "kept and/or generated in the regular course of a regularly conducted business activity of any Westinghouse entity by an employee or representative of any Westinghouse entity with knowledge of the act, event, condition or opinion recorded." The foregoing is also true with respect to any document produced by Westinghouse that was generated by some source outside the corporation.
