Remote Pressure Measuring System

● Centralize control with Honeywell remote measuring systems

Measurements of flow, pressure and liquid level can be brought to a central control room . . . with full accuracy and dependability . . . by means of Honeywell pneumatic transmission systems. Sturdy and foolproof, these systems link the remote measuring element by means of small-diameter air tubing to recording or controlling instruments on your control board.

Matched design of transmitter and receiver gives precise reproduction of measured values. Pressure measurements cover ranges from vacuum to superheat values. Flow systems can provide square root or linear scales. Level measurements are applicable to tanks, pressure vessels, corrosive liquids.

Get complete details applicable to your own plant from your local Honeywell representative . . . as near to you as your phone.
