Dear George:

About the only thing that I have been able to corral in competing constructions in the marine game, is a sample of Johns-Manville marine veneer faced with their di-allyl phthalate overlay in a green linen pattern. The product is not used as such, but is laminated in turn to a Marinite panel.

Incidentally, anything that your laboratory can turn up to establish that this is not as good a surface as Micarta, would be helpful.

Very truly yours,
