I have enclosed a copy of the AIHA Hygienic Guide on Diphenyl. You can find the information you need concerning the possible hazard of this material contained in this guide.

In the case of cancer fear from the association of this material with the nitro and amino diphenyls you are going to have to talk to your people and convince them that this simply is not in the same category with the nitro and amino aromatic compounds. They eat a little of this every day of their life with their breakfast orange juice, whether they squeeze the oranges themselves or whether it is squeezed for them.
