of the Bethlehem Steel Company.

Fifteen or twenty police, swinging baseball bats, broke up the fighting.

No one was hospitalized and there were no arrests.

The 50 CIO men, members of the steel workers organizing committee, fought their way through a 13-man picket line set up by the AFL International Union of operating engineers.
The AFL claims to represent a majority of crane men in the plant; the CIO claims to represent a majority throughout the entire workings.

The AFL Union established a picket line in demand for recognition and wage increases.

F. A. Lawrence, secretary of the AFL Union, said the union asked $1 an hour, and the company was paying 87½ cents.

The company employs about 225 men.

Three collisions reported here

Three traffic accidents occurred in Palo Alto Saturday afternoon, but no one was injured.

At 1:18 o'clock the cars operated by Earl H. Andersen, 920 Ramona street, and Allen W.
Chapline, Stanford, collided at Ramona street and Hamilton avenue.

A crash between the cars driven by Daniel C. Holton, 711 Columbia street, and Myrtle A.
Hobbs, Mountain View, followed at 3:50 o'clock at the corner of Emerson street and Embarcadero road.

At 5:45 o'clock there was a collision between the automobiles of Arthur W. Cooper, Hayward, and Mrs. Luvera A. Sevilla, 870 Loma Verde avenue, South Palo Alto, at Middlefield road and Everett avenue. Cooper, going northeasterly on Everett, reported that his car careened, barely avoiding a smashup with another machine and almost overturning, after the crash with Mrs. Sevilla's.
