Baltimore 2, Maryland

Dear Mr. Porth:

On January 26th. I went to the Sinai Hospital and examined, through the courtesy of Dr. Raven, the tissues and slides and the protocol in the case of Samuel P. Upp. The record shows that he died on August 11, 1955 at 25 A.M. Sinai autopsy number 6094. The gross examination revealed the following findings of significance are the following:

The left upper lung lobe was the site of a large cancer which extended up the bronchus across the midline into the right main stem. In addition to the cancer there was extensive consolidation of the left lung due to pneumonia caused by the Pseudomonas organism. Microscopically the cancer was a very poorly differentiated small to medium cell type. It had metastasized to the liver and to lymph nodes as well as elsewhere in the body. The lungs microscopically also showed evidence of moderate emphysema and scarring with asbestos bodies in some of the scars. The heart weighed 350 grams and showed moderate enlargement and dilatation of the right ventricle and auricle no doubt secondary to the pulmonary asbestosis. It did not appear that the heart lesions contributed significantly to the death which was undoubtedly due to cancer.

You have asked whether there was any causal connection between the claimant's death and his previous occupation during which he worked for fifteen years for insulation companies where he was exposed to fiberglass materials and asbestos. On the basis of the pathology found, this cancer did not differ from cancer occurring in individuals not exposed to asbestos so that any positive opinion that there is any causal relation cannot be stated. I do think, however, that you should be aware of the fact that there are a number of publications in recent years in which it is stated that asbestosis is a recognized cause of lung cancer and that this involves not only the asbestos rock miners but also individuals working in the insulation industry utilizing asbestos. Hueper (Archives of Pathology, 71, 237, 1961) is a typical example of this philosophy. Heard and Williams (writing in Thorax volume 16, 264, 1961) cite the work of McCullough in the Medical Branch of the Factory Inspectorate reviewed the death reports of 365 asbestos factory workers in the period 1924 to 1955 and found that sixty-five or 18% had lung cancer. Doll in 1955 concluded that the risk of lung cancer in asbestos workers was ten times as great as in the general population if exposure to asbestos lasted for twenty years or more. Opposing opinions have been offered by Braun and Truan in 1958 who found no increased incidence of cancer in asbestos miners but one must differentiate the factory worker from the miner in this regard.

From the standpoint of defending the occupational cancer allegation in this case, I have no doubt you will be faced with witnesses who will say that cancer develops in the region of scars in the lung due to asbestosis and that, because of the high incidence indicated above, they believe this cancer was due to exposure to asbestos. Their point of view will be strengthened if he did have the typical lung and heart pathology of asbestos injured lung. It would seem to me that the only way to successfully combat this case and every other case of cancer that develops in an individual with asbestosis would be to conduct a good epidemiological survey, principally mortality survey of the workers in the particular plant or plants concerned. If the mortality rate from lung cancer in these employees turned out to be no greater than that of similar age groups in the general population, it would be compelling evidence that this man's cancer was not caused by his exposure. If, on the other hand, the survey should reveal a considerably increased incidence of lung cancer similar to that described by McCullough, I believe you would have to conclude that there is reasonable medical evidence to suggest the probability of Knopp's cancer being industrial in origin. In doing such a survey, one, of course, takes a calculated risk that he will accept the evidence which will cause each lung cancer in a worker suffering from asbestos lung disease and employed by this company to be a compensation case which will have to be paid. This is exactly what happened to the Mutual Chemical Company in Baltimore some fifteen years ago and they have paid quite a few since then. On the other hand, it would seem fair and just that this should be so. The Mutual Chemical Company's experience was not entirely voluntary since the survey was made by the Public Health Service and was published regardless of the desire of the company.

I believe you should discuss with your principals the conduct of such a study at company expense with the understanding they would have the choice as to whether the results were published. Meanwhile, I suspect this case will be lost since we have no evidence to refute a high instance of lung cancer in the employee of this company and there is considerable medical literature incriminating asbestos.

REC MAR 21 1962

The following information was available to me in the Baltimore Claim File, reviewed for advice to Mr. Wray. The deceased started to work for the risk March 18th, 1957, left their employment on July 7th, 1961 and died on August 11th, 1961. Nowhere could I find the age of the deceased - the file was in the office of Attorney Forth. The deceased was a foreman for our risk and for fifteen years prior to our insured's employment had been a foreman for the Standard Insulation Company, Baltimore. There was no information as to the operations of the Standard Insulation Company, nor did our lawyer know at the time of my call. A medical report by Sylvia Lussman, M. D. stated that the insured had been known to smoke two packs of cigarettes per day for the last twenty years. Other evidence in a statement from the deceased's sister said that he had had quite a cough for years. The above physician gave a final diagnosis, "Carcinoma of the lung with metastases disease to lymph nodes and liver. Pneumoconiosis of the lung -".

I am attaching photostat of letter by Russell S. Fisher, M.D., Chief Medical Examiner, City of Baltimore sent to Attorney Forth on February 3rd.

Mr. Blaine asked that I talk with Attorney Forth regarding possible defense of such a claim. Mr. Forth showed me the products said to be applied by this risk and the majority of them were of a synthetic nature, such as PVC or rock wool. The only two asbestos products were corrugated pipe covering made of paper plus what appeared to be magnesia sectional piping, both of which products only contain from ten to fifteen per cent asbestos.

I concurred with Mr. Forth that the references referred to by Doctor Fisher are certainly in existence although Hyper sees cancer as arising from almost everything, is not respected by his colleagues even though he has been a physician in the National Institute of Health.

However, there were doubts in my mind as to what competent person had made a diagnosis of asbestosis. There is no asbestos industry to speak of in Baltimore although naturally, they do have highly qualified physicians. The Doctor Fisher in question is a professor of Forensic Medicine both at the University of Maryland and Johns Hopkins. While he is no doubt highly qualified in the field of legal medicine, in the last paragraph of his letter it surprised me to see him settling for deciding Mr. Blaine's case for him - I thought the man was asked for medical advice and not for legal advice.

Therefore, I suggested to you that Doctor Kenneth W. Smith, Medical Director, Johns-Manville Corporation, 22 East Fortieth Street, New York 16, N. Y., whom I have met on several occasions. At the request of Mr. Blaine, I phoned Doctor Smith this morning and he supplied the following information.

(1) Doctor Smith would suggest that the tissues and slides be examined for other toxic materials. He suggested that a section of the lung be made for such an examination - I could not tell him from the information I had whether such a section was in existence.

(2) Medical authorities should be unable to pin down asbestos exposure as the sole cause of the cancer which is said to have killed the man - no one knows the actual cause of cancer. This is the reason for identifying other materials in the available tissues. The matter of heavy smoking should be built up although no evidence may remain in the lungs of the effects of smoking.

(3) Doctor Smith cannot testify in defense of such cases - he says he has tried it and has always had his testimony discounted as being in the employ of a large asbestos producer.

(4) He suggested for expert medical testimony the use of A. J. Lanza, M. D., New York University Medical Center, 550 First Avenue, New York 16, N. Y. Doctor Lanza is one of the pioneers in Industrial Health, retired as Medical Director for the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. Doctor Smith advises that Doctor Lanza has just completed a study in an asbestos brake lining plant in Mannheim, Pa. in order to determine the incidence of cancer among asbestos exposed workers. I believe you can rest assured that Doctor Lanza must not have found much cancer in this plant or Doctor Smith would not be recommending him. Doctor Lanza is an international figure in the Industrial Health Field.

Doctor Smith offered the following information on their own experience with asbestos and cancer. In New Jersey they operate plants employing some 5,000 employees exposed to asbestos and in the last ten years the employee group have reported sixteen cases of cancer. This is the same as the

of development of cancer as would be expected among the population who have not been exposed to asbestos. Of particular interest is the fact that among 500 asbestos textile workers, no cases of cancer have developed - all the cancer has been elsewhere. The reason this is of particular interest is that the major exposure to asbestos dust, at least in my experience, has always been in the textile end of the business.

He said that where a claim for lung cancer among the above cases did arise, they have only paid for it on the basis of the employee showing evidence of advanced stages of asbestosis - mainly because of what they feel to be their moral responsibility although, of course, with the selfish reason of making a quiet settlement rather than having the case recorded in the law journals.

Please understand that I have no fixed opinions about this case, particularly as there seemed to be very limited information available when I was in Baltimore. However, it did appear important to me that a doctor having previous experience in the asbestos trades be given a look at the lung x-rays as well as the tissue material. Years ago all the large mutual casualty companies issued the following statement by their committee on occupational disease in regard to control of claims in foundries, "It is recommended that x-ray interpretations be made only by physicians who are qualified to interpret x-rays and who have training and wide experience in the diagnosis of silicosis, tuberculosis and other respiratory ailments." Asbestosis is an even more rare disease than silicosis. It is true that there may be asbestos particles in the tissues examined by the doctor but I have no doubt but that such bodies could be found in the lungs of our engineers serving a large asbestos producer in the Philadelphia area. In years back when considerable quantities of asbestos were handled, they employed as many as 1,000 people and so far, in spite of the development of a number of asbestosis claims, we also have had no claims for cancer arising from such exposure as yet.

Pete Nicholl, Esq.

Dear Pete,

I'm afraid several of our projects aren't going as well as hoped. The Medical Board has come up with a state's attorney who is arguing that the Medical Board records are not open to public view. While the lawyers argue that out in the state's attorneys' offices, maybe you can inquire after the records of Samuel P. Knopp. Records just produced in discovery show that Mr. Knopp was an insulation worker who died with asbestosis, lung cancer -- and filed a compensation claim, ~~supposed~~ by attorney Alfred M. Porth of Baltimore. The defendant was Leroy Insulating Company, and in addition Mr. Knopp had worked for Standard Insulation Company. Diagnosis was made by Dr. Sylvia Sussman and Dr. Russell S. Fisher, Chief Medical Examiner for the State Department of Post Mortem Examiners at 700 Fleet Street in Baltimore. The man died in 1961, and the claim was almost definitely filed the following year (in the first quarter).

Apparently, this case sent a shock wave through the industry. A troubleshooter for Keasbey and Mattison, an insulation manufacturer, contacted Dr. K.W. Smith of Johns-Manville, and was sent to Dr. A.J. Lanza as a possible medical expert defense witness. It would be fascinating to examine the claim file for that case; and possibly quite useful in the asbestos litigation. Therefore, I hope you can make use of your pleasant acquaintance with the public servants in the Medical Board office. If you get the chance to photocopy that file, please do so.

Still looking these new documents over, I see that Mr. Porth was the defense attorney, and that it was the defendants who consulted Dr. Fisher of the Medical Examiner's Office. I can't tell who obtained Dr. Sussman's opinion. Interestingly enough, there are telephone listings for Dr. Fisher (326-3523) and Mr. Porth (727-1164), although not Dr. Sussman. It would be interesting to find the plaintiff's attorney, if he is around, and ask what contact he had with various members of the industry and those they referred to as the "medical fraternity", etc. Could Mr. Porth be coaxed into telling us the plaintiff's attorney's name, in the event that we have trouble getting the claim file at the Medical Board? (Actually, the actual claim file may be held by other offices of the Workmen's Comp Commission)

Our friends the Springfield Hospital maintenance workers are being forced to the wall on their refusal to strip out asbestos. Now that the fools at the hospital administration have dropped this well-publicized hot potato on their bosses in the state health department, hopefully a favorable resolution will be forthcoming. However, the stakes are much higher for the state, with the possible repercussions in other state buildings. Now that Grace and I have played our cards, it may soon be time for you to let the powers that be know in no uncertain terms that the men are represented by competent, tenacious counsel with ample resources to see it through. A leaflet by the Asbestos Workers is enclosed, copies of which I request that you send to Bob Ridgely and (return) to me.

Re: Samuel Knopp

Dear Barry:

Enclosed please find copies of everything in the file on Samuel Knopp.

There were no medicals at all in the file except for the short letter from Dr. Lynn. As you can see, the claim was settled without a hearing. However, Henry Newburger, the claimant's attorney, is still listed in the Maryland Lawyer Directory. His address is 1014 Court Square Building, Baltimore, Maryland (Phone number is 727-1677). ²¹²⁰

We didn't have any problems getting our hands on the file but then I suppose the machete I was holding may have had something to do with that.

I trust some of this information is useful. Please let me know if I can be of any further assistance.

Thank you for your kind attention to this matter.

Very truly yours,

Gentlemen:

This case was scheduled for hearing on March 20, 1962. At the Defendant's request it was postponed and now will probably not come up for hearing again for several months.

This is not fair to the widow, Mrs. Helen Knopp, who is in urgent need of funds for herself and her three minor children.

I therefore respectfully request that you set this matter down as quickly as possible in order to obtain possible financial relief for the deceased's widow.
