

Message

From: Cato Institute [events@cato.org]
Sent: 6/8/2018 6:34:38 PM
To: Beck, Nancy [/o=ExchangeLabs/ou=Exchange Administrative Group (FYDIBOHF23SPDLT)/cn=Recipients/cn=168ecb5184ac44de95a913297f353745-Beck, Nancy]
Subject: Jeffrey Rosen and Doug Ginsburg on presidents and the Constitution, June 15

View this email in your browser

The Cato Institute invites you to a Book Forum on Friday, June 15, 2018.

William Howard Taft: The Last Constitutional Presidency?

A special discussion of the newly released book
William Howard Taft
(American Presidents Series — Times Books, 2018)

featuring the author

Jeffrey Rosen, President and CEO, National Constitution Center

with comments by

Hon. Douglas H. Ginsburg, Senior Circuit Judge, United States Court of Appeals, District of Columbia

moderated by

Gene Healy, Vice President, Cato Institute

RSVP to the event

Our 27th president, William Howard Taft, has been relegated to a historical afterthought, if not a punchline. If he's remembered at all, it's for his enormous girth and periodic difficulties with bathtubs. Yet in this slim volume on our largest president, Jeffrey Rosen argues that Taft has much to teach us today. Our "most judicial president," who later served as Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, shared the Framers' conception of the presidency as a constitutional rather than a popular office. In his single presidential term and his failed bid for reelection in the pivotal 1912 race, Taft staunchly opposed Teddy Roosevelt's "stewardship" theory of the office, which empowered the president "to do anything that the needs of the nation demanded unless such action was forbidden by the Constitution or the laws." The president's authority, Taft countered, is limited to what the Constitution and the laws specifically grant, and to hold otherwise would lead to an imperial presidency.

EVENT INFORMATION

Date: June 15, 2018

Time: 12:00PM - 1:30PM
(Luncheon to follow)

Cost: Free of charge

Location: Cato Institute
1000 Massachusetts Ave, NW
Washington, DC 20001 (map)

REGISTER

Purchase Book

In his reluctance to rule by executive order or wage war without Congress — and in his resistance to popular passions — Taft serves both as a model of what a constitutional presidency could be and a reminder of the challenges facing that model in the modern era.

Please join us on June 15th for a lively discussion of the Taft legacy and what we can learn from it today.

If you can't make it to the event, watch it Live Online and join the conversation on Twitter using #CatoEvents.

Follow @CatoEvents on Twitter to get future event updates, live streams, and videos from the Cato Institute.

Additional Events:

#CatoDigital--Net Neutrality, Six Months Later

June 14, 2018 • Washington, DC

The Clash of Generations? Intergenerational Change and American Foreign Policy Views

June 25, 2018 • Washington, DC

NAACP v. Alabama* after 60 Years: Should Associational Privacy Still Be Protected by the Constitution?

June 28, 2018 • Washington, DC

Cato University: College of History and Philosophy

August 2-4, 2018 • San Diego, CA

Cato University: College of Economics

October 25-27, 2018 • Boston, MA

[More events]

Support Cato

Follow Cato on:

Cato Institute • 1000 Massachusetts Ave, NW • Washington, D.C. 20001 • Phone (202) 842 0200

Unsubscribe / Manage Subscriptions

beck.nancy@epa.gov why did I get this email?