Hi Hannah,

Hope that you're doing well. Dr. Foxx had a meeting with a company based in Greensboro named Boom Technology that is developing a supersonic plane for commercial use. During the meeting, they discussed their efforts to repeal the ban on supersonic travel over land. From my understanding, this is something that is being looked at by the FAA/DOT for a possible executive order.

Dr. Foxx said that she supports their efforts and that she would share her support with the administration, so just doing due diligence and passing that information along.

If you have any questions, please let me know. Thanks!
