RE: Estate of

-vs-

Celotex, et. al.
I.C.#: 83 L 2442

Dear Tony:

Please be advised I attended the pre-trial conference on this case before Judge Dean Trafelet in Rm. 1606 of the Circuit Court of Cook County, Daley Center, Chicago, on March 24, 1988 at 2:00 p.m.

Present was John Burke of Burke & Burke, Ltd., Two First National Plaza, 20 South Clark Street, Suite 2200, Chicago, Illinois, 60603, at phone 726-6630. John Burke represents Beatrice Anglo and the Estate as plaintiff in this asbestos case. This is one of John Burke's area of expertise, as he has handled and is handling many asbestos lawsuits.

Also present was John Krivicich, Baker & McKenzie, Prudential Plaza, Chicago, Illinois, 60601, at phone 861-8000, who at one time represented a consortium of eight asbestos manufacturers in this case and still represents two defendants, Owens-Corning of Illinois and Eagle Pritchard Co. The other six defendants he represented have been dismissed by summary judgement. The summary judgement on Eagle Pritchard Co. is presently before the Appellate Court on appeal by one party. It appears Owens-Corning is in the case to stay and they have a $25,000.00 offer on the table at present and in conference with John Burke outside the Judge's chambers indicated they would offer $50,000.00, if that would settle the case.

It appears all the asbestos manufacturers, including Owens-Corning, are in the case on the theory that they supplied asbestos coating for the beams in the construction of our new facilities in 1954 and 1956, which at the time was required by the building code. So the alleged exposure occurred during the one year or longer that worked in that building.

Also present was Greg Roesser who represents Rider Industries from Texas and has a summary judgement pending but is awaiting affidavits to support that summary judgement in order to be dismissed from the case. In a separate conference with him, he indicated his client would be willing to contribute a few thousand dollars or cost of defense to get out of the case.

Also present was Attorney ? (UNKNOWN) who represents Whitfield. She has a summary judgement pending on April 7, 1988 in the a.m. and pending the results of that motion the pre-trial was continued to April 7, 1988 at 2:00 p.m. It is expected that this defendant will be dismissed according to the other interested parties and their representation to the judge.

I know from conversations with the plaintiff's attorney prior to pre-trial that he would accept $100,000.00 to settle. Since I was excluded from some of the negotiations that afternoon, I don't know if the plaintiff and defendants narrowed their difference in settlement demands and offers.

It is clear from the overview of this litigation that in a short period of time this case will be narrowed down to one or two defendants from an original number of 20 defendants or more. This case is set for trial on June 6, 1988. It is also clear that John Krivicich is looking for a way for Owens-Corning to either avoid liability completely or place the bulk of the liability on another party, namely, Sherwin Williams Co.

We had a mini-conference with the judge, myself and John Krivicich. John Krivicich explained to the judge how we have been resisting his subpoenas and supplying limited information to him. He also told the judge he had sent an investigator to interview , supervisor, ? (UNKNOWN) at the Kensington plant but on Tony's instructions, the supervisor would not speak to the investigator.

John Krivicich told the judge he believes the Fibrasol gutter paint had asbestos or other dangerous chemicals in it to which Frank Anglo may have been exposed and this may have been the cause of his death or the major contributant.

At the outset of our mini-conference, I told Judge Trafelet that we had a $64,600.00 subrogation lien from the worker's compensation case and are, therefore, entitled to $48,450.00 or 75% of our lien according to Section 5(b) of the Act and a covenant not to sue from the plaintiff. I advised the judge I was generally acquainted with the offers and demands in this case and since the offers and demands were small, I did not know whether we would assert the full lien or be willing to go 1/3, 1/3 & 1/3 with the plaintiff and her attorney.

Then John Krivicich advised me and the judge that if we could provide him voluntarily with proof that didn't work with or around asbestos in our products, he would give us a covenant not to sue, but if we continued to resist his attempts at discovery, he would third party Sherwin Williams into the case and begin formal discovery.

I advised the judge that would immediately lead to our motion for summary judgement based on our employer-employee defense under the Workers' Compensation Act. Judge Trafelet advised me that morning alone had allowed the third partying of two employers based on the theory that asbestos was an unreasonably dangerous substance, known to be dangerous and harmful and if an employer allowed exposure, this constituted reckless disregard and conscious indifference or willful and wanton misconduct, thereby, removing the protection of suing an employer for negligence.

I asked the judge for precedent and he cited the Systems Recovery Inc. case. The Systems Recovery case involved a company that removed silver from x-ray films by using cyanide and resulted in the death of several employees of Systems Recovery Inc. in Illinois. Not only was common law suit allowed against the company for willful and wanton misconduct despite the usual Worker's Compensation bar but the corporate officers and owners were indicted for reckless homicide.

As you probably know, successful discovery will show that worked as a paint filler and paint mixer for us for many years and did mix Fibrasol paint or gutter paint which contained asbestos. Further, died from Mesothelioma or a cancer of the lining of the lung, which is known to be caused by asbestos fibers. Dr. Van Ordstrand confirmed this some time ago and that was the basis of our settlement.

Although it was never stated, it was implied that waiver of our lien could make the entire case go away for all parties.

This would essentially mean $50,000.00 fresh money from Owens-Corning and a waiver of our $48,450.00 lien from us.

If we are third parties into the case and found guilty of willful and wanton misconduct because we knew an unreasonably dangerous substance, asbestos was in our product and disregarded this knowledge and permitted to receive this exposure which led to his death, our exposure for fresh money could be extreme.

Please call upon receipt of this letter. I await your instructions prior to the April 7, 1988 pre-trial conference.

Very truly yours,
