OSHA Requirement of Asbestos
Caution Labels

It appears that we may have to add something in the way of a Caution Label in our AIO Kits. However, it states in your letter that part of the label should read "Avoid Creating Dust". Sears must grind our brake shoes in their back shops prior to any brake installation and the by product of the grinding of the brake shoes is some dust. For us to advise Sears to avoid creating dust could have the potential of taking them out of the back shop installed business. Perhaps we could add something other than "Avoid Creating Dust" to the label.

Are we bound to use the OSHA recommended label, or may we make a substitute or delete that one phrase?
