The writer, Bill Clede, is the outdoor editor for the paper. He also has a radio show in Hartford and produces a syndicated radio sports show for Marlin Fire Arms Company which is sent to some 108 radio stations.

The result was a major story in Sunday's Hartford Times, copy attached. I was very apprehensive on how this outdoor editor might slant his story, but the final result couldn't have been better. Although he misquotes us slightly in several places, Clede's article is more factual and conservative than the San Francisco Chronicle story.

PS -- As you may have noted, Time magazine has just established a new news department on "environment." St. Louis and Monsanto are prominently displayed in this week's issue. Time plans a story on DDT and I am sure PCB will figure in that story since the magazine already has information from us. -- TCF
