Colleagues,

I am pleased to announce that last Thursday the U.S. Senate confirmed Bill Wehrum to serve as the Assistant Administrator for EPA's Office of Air and Radiation, and he was sworn in today. Please join me in welcoming him to EPA.

Bill has a long history of public service and his career includes over 31 years working in the environmental field through engineering, legal practice, and administrative duties. He previously served as EPA's Acting Assistant Administrator for Air and Radiation from 2005 to 2007 and also as EPA's Principal Deputy Assistant Administrator and counsel to the Assistant Administrator for Air and Radiation. He most recently worked as a partner and head of the Administrative Law Group at Hunton & Williams LLP, where his practice focused on air quality issues.

Bill comes to the agency with years of institutional knowledge that will help guide him through administering air quality issues for all Americans, and his experience will be vital to the agency's mission to bring about regulatory reforms.

I would like to give a special thanks to Sarah Dunham, who has served as Acting Administrator for the Office of Air and Radiation.

Ryan Jackson,
Chief of Staff
