My dear Kehoe:

I have recently had an application for a job from a man named McDonald. This man has a very good training and extremely pleasant personality and would probably be a very good man for our work. He contracted tuberculosis two years ago and spent about a year at Saranac, whence he was discharged some six months ago as an arrested case and told that he could enter into any sort of employment that he chose. He tells me that he has been in excellent health since that time. He found out that we were building a laboratory in Denver and it occurred to him that if he could get a position in Denver, it might be a wise precautionary move on his part from the health standpoint. I explained to him that it was against our policy to employ anyone with organic troubles of one kind or another, and he understands our situation thoroughly. I told him that in no case would I offer him a position without the approval of our Medical Department, and I am writing to you for a frank expression of your opinion on the subject. He tells me that he will be glad to get Dr. Price (one of the Saranac specialists) to give a full statement as to his medical condition. I would appreciate it if you will write me frankly on the subject.

Very truly yours,

Graham Edgar
