Paige –

Apologies for the delay. The invitation looks great.

Could we get on the phone to discuss potential media opportunities? (202) 564 1935

Thanks,
Lincoln

Aaron,

Just following up on the draft invitation below. Would you like any changes before we begin promoting the event this week?

Thanks,

Paige

Dear Aaron,

Please see below our draft invitation for Administrator Pruitt's event. Let us know by COB Friday if you would like changes. We would like to begin promoting this early next week. If you have people you would like us to invite please send along names and email addresses. Additionally, I am looping in our public affairs office (Maria) for any media you might want to include.

Just to confirm, this event will be live streamed, on the record. A video will also be posted to our website after the fact. If this is of any concern to your office let me know.

Lastly, as we get closer to the date let me know about any special arrival, hard stop time, etc.

Anything else just let me know.

We look forward to hosting Administrator Pruitt.

Best,

Paige

The Hoover Institution is pleased to invite you to a special edition of Opening Arguments: Conversations on American Constitutionalism

Returning to "EPA Originalism":
A conversation with
EPA Administrator Scott Pruitt

Thursday, May 18, 2017

5:00 - 7:00 PM

Hoover Institution

1399 New York Avenue, NW, Suite 500

Washington, DC 20005

In his early statements, including his introductory address to EPA employees, Administrator Pruitt stressed the need to pay greater heed to Congress's laws, and to the federalism inherent in those laws and in the Constitution itself. In conversation with Hoover Institution research fellow Adam White, Pruitt will discuss his vision for the EPA, Congress, and federalism.

*This event is part of a monthly series, Opening Arguments: Conversations on American Constitutionalism.*
