Dear Dr. Kehoe:

Many thanks for your helpful and comforting letter of April 14th on the unwarranted and unfavorable publicity we receive from time to time on lead.

I think your conclusions about ignoring the syndicated comments from various doctors are well taken for any answers may make would certainly not receive the same publicity given the original attacks. What puzzles me greatly and what weakens my confidence in its pages, is the fact that a reputable journal like that of the American Medical Association would print such an article as the one by Dr. Horatio B. Williams and entitle it "Chronic Lead Poisoning". It must be evident to any one even vaguely familiar with scientific methods that Dr. Williams has placed himself on very uncertain ground.

With kindest regards and with best wishes, -

Sincerely yours,

Secretary.
