chairmen of the various sections on which conferences are to be held. It happens this year that with Mrs. C. H. Danforth as district director of public welfare, the sub-chairmen are all from the Palo Alto council. Departments the sub-chairmen are all from the zenship, Mrs. L. O. Meagher; juvenile protection, Mrs. R. E. Hackley; legislation, Mrs. F. H. Glasson; motion pictures, Mrs. H. C. Ray; recreation, Mrs. D. G. Peavey; safety, Mrs. Dale Atwood. Mrs. Danforth entertained these chairmen at luncheon at her home last Saturday, at which time Mrs. R. E. Sanders, president of sixth district, was guest of honor.

STANFORD PEOPLE HERE TO RESIDE

Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg Jones, both former Stanford people, have come here to reside and are settled at 451 Chaucer street. Their three daughters, Marion, Marjorie, and Patricia, are attending high school.

Mrs. Jones was Miss Elizabeth Edwards, Stanford '16. Mr. Jones, also a former Stanford student, is a son of Mrs. Gertrude K. Jones of Palo Alto and a brother of Dr. Gertrude Jones of San Francisco. He is in business in the latter city. His wife plans to take work at Stanford toward an advanced degree.

Approximately 200 members and friends attended the homecoming and goodfellowship dinner given Tuesday night at the Mayfield Community Methodist Episcopal Church by the Ladies' Aid Society and Young Matrons' Circle. The dining room was decorated in yellow, with yellow candles on the tables. Edward Herrington acted as toastmaster, introducing the heads of the various church departments, each of whom gave a brief account of the group's activities.

Several selections were sung by the junior choir, of which Reu Manhire is leader and Mrs. Tuttle Daniels accompanist. Kenneth Davies, accompanied by Mr. Manhire, gave vocal solos.

Visiting ministers and their wives were introduced by Mr. Harrington, who also presented officials of the church. The Rev. Edgar Wilson, pastor, talked on the work which has been accomplished and the possibilities lying before the church and the community.

Dr. H. H. Frost, district superintendent, spoke briefly and introduced the main speaker of the evening, Bishop James Baker. Bishop Baker outlined his work and emphasized the increase in the number of young people interested in the church.
