Dear Doctor Epstein:

I am sending herewith two copies of the paper which I have prepared, for such use as you may wish to make of it. I can provide another if you wish.

This has turned out to be a tome, which might be diminished somewhat by some ardent editing, but I have attempted to include enough discussion, in relatively simple language, to make my views clear, even to an audience for which physiological concepts are not generally familiar.

I shall, of course, have to select bits and pieces of the manuscript for reading - or for verbal presentation at the session, but I'd like to get the substance of the manuscript into circulation, as an expression of my interpretation of the available information. A very considerable amount of intense work has gone into this paper, and while a great deal more could have been said, with profit, I am reasonably well satisfied with the result. If you should care to suggest a means by which I can better meet the wishes of your Committee, do not hesitate to do so.

I have sent two copies, as requested, to Mr. England.

Cordially yours,

Robert A. Kehoe, M.D.
Professor Emeritus of Occupational Medicine
