My dear doctor Kehoe:

If the following reference is out of order let me know, but I thought if there is any connection between this patients complaints and his occupation you could soon determine it.

Mr. [REDACTED] 44, is operator of the local Standard Oil bulk station. He has handled petroleum products there and as a distributor for ten years. Recently he consulted me because of severe attacks of vertigo. History reveals that he has experienced these occassionally before this, that for a couple of years he has had "stomach trouble", and at times very annoying, burning and tingling.

If you could see him, he can come to Cincinnati at your convenience. Also, if you wish the results of my examination, I shall gladly send them, incomplete as they are. He does harbor some foci of infection.

With kindest regards, I remain,

Sincerely yours,

R. B. Ellison
