Borg-Warner history of asbestos health warning labels related by plaintiff's counsel

For aftermarket clutches, i.e., clutch parts sold to consumers at auto parts stores, BW never provided any warning. No warnings on the actual clutch parts, and no warnings on the clutch packaging.

For clutches sold to automotive OEMs (GM, Ford, Chrysler, etc.), BW never provided or labeled the asbestos clutches sold to OEMs until 1986. And even then, BW only provided the warning at GM's request. It did not provide warnings to other OEMs.
