

city. Any other buyer must pay more for the property.

Dr. H. G. Wetherill, chairman of the library board, said that the Field property was considered along with other possible sites by a committee composed of Col. Roger S. Fitch, Carmel Martin and Ted K. Clark.

This group finally decided, for many reasons, that the best site would be the Freeman property on Pierce street just across Jefferson from Colton Hall Park. Construction of a new library there would round out the group of public buildings at the Civic Center, it was pointed out.

SECOND ENTRANCE

Councilman John H. Thomsen pointed out that a second entrance to the Field property, eliminating necessity of library patrons to buck heavy Munras avenue traffic, could be provided through extension of Sargent court.

The Field property, as a whole, fronts for almost 700 feet on Munras avenue and averages over 270 feet in depth. The large two-story residence is located at the lower end of the tract.

Dr. Wetherill told the council there is no question that a new city library is urgently needed. He said the old building now in use is so damaged by termites that roofers crashed through the roof while working there some time ago.

He also stressed the growing cultural and educational importance of an adequate library and said that Monterey can amply afford to erect the recommended structure even if a bond issue is required.

however, in which thousands of Mexicans marched carrying banners denouncing foreign concessionaires. Carried in the parade was a coffin adorned with oil cans, emblematic of the death of oil exploitation by foreigners, which evoked from a British bystander the dry comment: "The blighters don't know it but they're carrying their own coffin to their own funeral!"

Salaam, a Mohammedan salutation, means "Peace with you."
