

IN RE: ABRAMS

November 1992

INDUSTRIAL HYGIENE FEATURES

Abst. No. 210 surveys the microstructure of the lung.

The heart and physical exercise are discussed in Abst. No. 221.

Abst. No. 225 reports on pulmonary emphysema in a non-smoking population.

Abst. No. 228 is concerned with pulmonary alveolar mural sclerosis.

Two years' experience in treatment of burns in a private general hospital are discussed in Abst. No. 238.

Consult Abst. No. 241 for information on the origin of the house dust allergen.

Health standards for lead chromate dusts are presented in Abst. No. 245.

Ferrous sulfate poisoning is described in Abst. No. 246.

Information on the excretion and metabolism of edible food colors is given in Abst. No. 251.

Abst. No. 253 reports on a case of fatal addiction to trichloroethylene.

Abst. No. 261 is concerned with the response of the lung to physical irritants.

Asbestosis in experimental animals is the title of Abst. No. 265.

Abst. No. 270 describes an example of thorotrast-induced meningioma.

Abst. No. 278 investigates osteogenic sarcoma in a luminous watch dial painter.

See Abst. No. 282 for information regarding the measurement of automobile exhaust gas hydrocarbons.

Data on short-term air pollution studies are given in Abst. No. 292.

FOUNDATION FACTS

DRS. ROBERT T. P. deTREVILLE AND PAUL GROSS, of the Foundation's staff attended a Lead Symposium at The Kettering Laboratory, University of Cincinnati, College of Medicine, February 25-27.

INDUSTRIAL MEDICAL ASSOCIATION MEETING held in Washington, D.C. from March 18-21 was attended by the Foundation's Managing Director, Dr. Robert T. P. deTreville.

TRANSACTIONS OF 27th ANNUAL MEETING of Industrial Hygiene Foundation held in Pittsburgh, Pa., on October 24-25, 1962, have been published as the complete March 1963 issue of the Archives of Environmental Health. Copies of these Transactions are now being mailed to all I-H-F members.

NEW REPRINTS available from the Foundation upon request. "Response of the Lung to Physical Irritants" by Paul Gross, Arch. Environmental Health 6, 42-44 (Jan. 1963); and "Pulmonary Alveolar Mural Sclerosis" by Paul Gross, Arch. Environmental Health 6, 117-117 (Jan. 1963).

28th ANNUAL MEETING

OCTOBER 23 - 24, 1963

03121170