

many county levy now is on property. That counties use sales and business taxes. Some already do. The recommendations said that the county tax be a half-cent higher in unincorporated areas than its levy is in incorporated areas.

"We cannot support the counties' proposal for broadening the tax base," Dixon said, "unless and until the counties are willing to support collateral legislation prohibiting any county from providing municipal type services in unincorporated areas to be paid out of the general fund."

McMillan said that in its 1948-1949 fiscal budget, Los Angeles County included $9,200,000 for the direct benefit of unincorporated areas. "All the taxpayers of the county—including those in cities—paid for these services," he added.

This means, he said, that city property holders paid 19.9 cents per $100 assessment without getting any benefits from it.
